THE LANGUAGE SITUATION IN OUR COUNTRY TODAY – DOES THE ORTHOGRAPHY RULES SERVE THE COMMUNITY OR JUST ON THE CONTRARY?

Abstract:

This article provides an overview of spelling but punctuation rules that are compulsory and not applicable in practice. There has been a long-standing discussion inside and outside of the linguistic circles about this dangerous discrepancy between rules and practice. However, this discussion has not lead to concrete solutions and actions. As a consequence, the problem of society's drifting away from the idea of the need of common spelling has deepened. This article is another attempt for evoking discussion and changes in the codification.

Keywords:

linguistic norm, spelling, punctuation and grammar rules, linguistic practice
